Book 3 of Believers of the Last Hour

Copyright Erin Coss 2025

Welcome Back!

This book marks the final stretch of the journey — where faith is tested, truth is costly, and the testimony of the Believers becomes a weapon against the darkness.

As you open these pages together, I pray your hearts are stirred toward boldness, endurance, and a deeper trust in God's promises.

Before you begin, I encourage you to pray together. Ask the Holy Spirit to guide your hearts, deepen your understanding, and stir boldness in your walk with Christ.

Thank you!

Thank you for walking through the entire Believers of the Last Hour trilogy. It's no small thing to journey through a story marked by sacrifice, endurance, and the tension of living faithfully in dark days. I pray these books stirred meaningful conversation, deepened your understanding of Scripture, and encouraged each of you to hold fast to Jesus — no matter the cost.

As you close this chapter, I'd love to suggest one more story for your group: Milt for future discussion. Though it stands alone, it weaves into the same world — offering a raw, redemptive look at one man's fall from faith, and the long road back to hope. His story may open new conversations about grace, regret, and what it really means to lead with humility.

Thank you again for reading, reflecting, and enduring with me.

Blessings,

Erin
